petent as a professional nurse.

Very truly yours,

J. A. W. Williams

Miss Edith J. Hargill
you will find careful,
competent, faithful,
patient and in fact,
all a good nurse
should be. I can not speak too highly
of her work while

five years ago and
again. last summer.
Nothing is a trouble to her and she can adapt herself to any surroundings. I might add also, she is a fine travelling companion. Anticipating the patient's
least wish such has been the experience
